OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC PRINTER

May 12, 1948.

Executive Director,
Central Intelligence Agency,
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear

Reference is made to your memorandum of April 27, 1948, which advised that the Central Intelligence Agency was arranging for the mobilization assignment to CIA of all assigned civilian personnel who have military reserve status, and for a special program covering requirements for maintaining such status.

It was suggested that similar arrangements be made for employees of the GPO-Department of State Service Office who have military reserve status in order to avoid the possibility of their loss through sudden call to military active duty. The concurrence of this office was requested in order that the CIA might arrange mobilization assignments to CIA for this personnel to remain in effect during the entire period of such duty and for similar arrangements for personnel holding military reserve status who may be so assigned in the future.

This office is in entire accord with your suggestion that military reserve personnel, who are employees of the GPO-Department of State Service Office, be assigned so that their services would not be lost in event of sudden call to military active duty. However, in order that the Government Printing Office may fulfill its part of the agreement, entered into on November 27, 1946, concerning operation of the GPO-Department of State Service Office which also involves the Department of State and CIA, it is recommended that the establishment of a military reserve unit assigned to CIA provide for the reassignment of employees of the GPO-Department of State Service Office to that plant in event of sudden call to military active duty. The Government Printing Office will provide such information that may be required to develop a table of organization for such a unit to meet minimum requirements in case of national emergency.

Very truly yours,

John J. Deviny
